(Asheville, North Carolina) – It's a unique new online tool designed to help provide structure and organization for families challenged by ADHD. At ADHDNanny.com, entire families can manage their schedules while specifically addressing the needs of their ADHD children. ADHDNanny.com provides the tools needed to establish structure and consistency in a fun, nurturing format. ADHDNanny.com helps complete goals and give a child rewards for a job well done. It gives parents an easy to use control panel, especially designed to manage multiple children. ADHDNanny.com's Schedulematic will help get days in order and get tasks accomplished. It provides reminders for little league, dance class, PTA meetings and reminds children of their assigned chores – it even rewards them when chores are successfully completed.

How Does ADHDNanny.com work?

Both the parent and the child are given their own rooms in Nanny's house that are full of tools for daily living. ADHDNanny.com allows families to set up weekly routines and tasks and mark them off when the child completes them. As the child completes daily tasks, Nanny Points are awarded. These points can be spent on virtual decorations for their room, fun games, toys, and personalized coupons that can be printed and redeemed for prizes in Nanny's Store. In addition children can be issued consequences for incomplete work or misbehavior. This easy system of reinforcement motivates children to manage their lives and have fun doing it. Custom animation moves forward as the child makes progress and personalized trophies can even be awarded upon goal completions.

Other ADHDNanny.com offerings....

Time & Money Management - A child can keep track of the amount of money in their virtual bank and watch it grow. Families can set saving goals and charity goals to help teach kids how to manage money. Timers can alert a child or parent at a specific time and there's even a virtual stopwatch that can be used to time children while doing chores or homework to help prevent dawdling.

Strikes/Discipline - Misbehavior can be discouraged through strikes that appear on a child's virtual wall on ADHDNanny.com. Incomplete chores or misbehavior can result in a strike – which can also carry consequences such as losing points or allowance.

Notes & Journals - The ADHDNanny.com Note Board provides a way to communicate between parent and child. The board can be used to write reminder notes, share ideas, news or just say "I love you". The Journal can be used to record thoughts or write notes and reminders. A child can have public entries and invite others to read them, or can submit private entries for no one else to see.

Weekly Reports - Each week ADHDNanny.com provides families with a report detailing how well the child did in the past 7 days. Families can watch as the amount of work done each week rises and strikes fall. Many stats are monitored, giving families an accurate idea of progress each week.

New features like a homework section and an online social community will be added soon.

ADHDNanny.com is $9.95 per month for unlimited use for up to 3 family members (1 parent and 2 children). A total of 6 children in one family can be added at any time.
